About H&H Classics

Founded by Simon Hope and Mark Hamilton in 1993 H&H Classics has been continuously trading longer than any other UK or European auction house. In fact you could say that we've reached classic status ourselves.

We believe that our expertise is unrivalled in the market for classic and collector motorcars and motorcycles, we also believe that our auctions speak louder than words so here are some highlights from almost 30 years under the hammer.

We became one of only five auction houses ever to sell a car for over $11 million when we sold a 1960 Ferrari 250 GT SWB in 2015 and we've sold almost £2m of motorcycles in a single day at our motorcycle auctions.

We've achieved world record prices for competition cars including a 1968 Lotus 49B and a 1996 Subaru Impreza WRC and we've had Royal success stories with The Queen's Daimler, Prince Philip's Lagonda and Princess Anne's Bentley.

We also know that the value of a collectible isn't just reflected in the sale price or a celebrity's name. An Austin or a BSA can provoke a passion as strong as an Aston Martin or Brough Superior, so that's why we operate at every level of the classic and collector car and motorcycle market.

Speak to one of our specialists and you'll soon discover that we share your passion and buying or selling with H&H Classics will be an easy and enjoyable experience.

6 Steps to Selling at Auction

1 Initial Contact

Please contact one of our specialists using the online consignment form which you will find on the Value My Classic page on the H&H Classics website. Alternatively please feel free to call us on 01925 210035 or email sales@HandH.co.uk

2 Consignment

Our quick and easy consignment process includes an initial conversation followed by one of our specialists visiting you to view your vehicle.

3 Pre-Auction

Your vehicle will benefit from our full range of marketing services including on and offline promotion, PR and social media exposure.

4 Vehicle Prep & Delivery

Please prepare your vehicle ready for sale with all relevant paperwork present, our transport partners are on-hand to assist with your delivery. Vehicles should be delivered to the auction venue on the allocated set-up day in a clean 'ready for sale' condition (live auctions only). Not applicable for online sales.

5 Auction Day

We will provide you with a catalogue for our live auction and complimentary entry on auction day should you wish to attend. Where a bid is accepted the auctioneer will sell the lot by the fall of the hammer.

6 After the Auction

Swift and secure payments for 30 years.

At the end of the auction, we'll collect the payment and hold it in our ring-fenced account. We are authorised by the DVLA to process the V5C registration document on your behalf. You'll then receive payment 14 days after the buyer's fees clear.

Should your vehicle fail to meet your reserve price then we will continue to promote the vehicle and discuss any further offers with you.

Our charge to consign your motorcycle to our auction is £50 and between £100 and £400 for cars.

All charges are subject to VAT.

For payment of your fees, please use the below account:

Buying at Auction

With the rapid-fire patter of the auctioneer, the subtle nods, raised hands or waved catalogues of the bidders and the echo of the hammer falling, a classic auction is an exciting place to be.

Even if you're following and bidding online or by phone there's still the thrill of the chase, the chance you could grab a bargain or beat another bidder to your prize.

H&H Classics' classic auctions are always a great day out in great company. Our online auctions are conducted to the same high standards as our in-person events and your dream classic motorcar or motorcycle could be just a click or phone call away.

5 Steps to Buying at Auction

1 Registration

When you arrive at the auction you will need to register as a bidder and provide photo identification. Online, telephone and commission bidders can register for an account at any time on the H&H Classics website.

2 Viewing

For our classic auctions we hold viewing days prior to auction day. Our online auctions enable viewing via the vendor by prior arrangement.

3 Bidding

Bidding options include in person at venue, by telephone, online and commission.

4 Payment

Payment for successfully purchased Lots is required by midday on the day following the auction and can be made by bank transfer, debit or credit card.

5 Collection

Removal of Lots can take place once the auction has ended and up to 1pm on the following day. Collection of online auction Lots is arranged via the vendor.

H&H Online Auctions

H&H Online Auctions are held to the same exacting standards as our Classic Auction events. These rolling, timed auction events close on the second Wednesday of each month and see a constant flow of classic and modern classic cars and motorcycles for buyers to bid on from the comfort of home – or indeed anywhere they have access to a smartphone, tablet, or computer.

Just like our Classic Auctions, H&H will guide buyers and sellers through the process, which is essentially the same as our in-person auctions. For sellers that means we will value your vehicle, inspect documentation, perform an HPI check and write a detailed description to tempt online buyers. You can supply your own photography, or we can arrange to shoot your car if you prefer. We will field any questions from buyers throughout the auction and we will handle the exchange of funds after the sale – a reassuring safety net. What's more sellers pay no fees at all and so receive the full sales price.

Buyers at our online auctions can have the confidence that the final transaction is handled through H&H rather than direct with the seller. We charge a flat fee of 12.5 per cent for car sales and 15 per cent for motorcycles, plus VAT, for our services, and after the excitement of winning with a click of a mouse or tap of a phone screen, the only thing you'll need to arrange yourself is the collection of your 'new' classic – although H&H can handle that as well if you prefer.

H&H raises the bar for online auctions, delivering a quality of service backed by almost 30 years of experience. Whether you're looking to buy or sell speak to one of our specialists to discover how easy and enjoyable taking part in an H&H Online auction can be.
